ERGONOMIC WORKHORSE WITH RESCUE OPTION

A department approached us with a wish list for a custom configured skid unit to fit in an Argo, but not just a tank and pump, it needed to include a rescue option similar to our 'L-Type' units.

We never back down from a challenge and put our years of skid design experience to good use. After some careful planning, head scratching, and engineering, we got it done. There's a ton of equipment packed into this ergonomically designed small package. Can you guess how it got its name?
